

WIN A TRIP TO MACKIE DESIGNS WORLD HEADQUARTERS AND AN 8HR MIXING SESSION WITH KEITH OLSEN, SIX-TIME GRAMMY-WINNING PRODUCER.

Seminal music producer Keith Olsen didn't only produce Fleetwood Mac's self-titled, 1975 White Album but also played an integral role in uniting the members of this the most commercially successful lineup in Fleetwood Mac's long history. This was just one step in his phenomenally successful production career.

Through the 70s, 80s, and 90s, Olsen's production work has earned him 6 Grammy's, more than 39 Gold or better, 24 Platinum or better, and 14 multi-Platinum or better album certifications. Olsen has been frontline producer of record on over 100 complete albums. Some of the other artists he's worked with include the Grateful Dead, Bob Weir, Eddie Money, Emerson Lake & Palmer, Rick Springfield, REO Speedwagon, Pat Benatar, Heart, Joe Walsh, Starship, Santana, Kim Carnes, Jethro Tull, The Babys, Ozzy Osbourne, Scorpions, Bad Company, 38 Special, Russ Ballard, Sammy Hagar, Whitesnake, Foreigner, Sheena Easton, Steve Perry, Journey, Loverboy, and Lou Gramm. He even reunited with his old friend, Stevie Nicks, to co-write "I'd Rather Be Alone" for her 1985 solo album, Rock A Little. He's also been involved in several movie soundtracks, including "Footloose," "Vision Quest," "Tron," "Flashdance" and "Top Gun." Album sales totaling more than 1 billion dollars at retail.

Keith Olsen is currently Mackie Designs' Corporate Director, Global Recording Product and Market Development. He contributed to Lindsey Buckingham's, Stevie Nicks' and Rick Springfield's "Behind the Music" programs on VH1 and needs to mix your work...
